HOME OCCUPATION

What is the difference between home-occupation and a home-based business?

The main difference is that home-occupation does not allow for any additional employees on the site while 'home-based business' allows for up to two employees. Both of them MUST be ancillary to the residency.

What is a home-occupation?

A home-occupation means the use of a part of the dwelling by the resident for non-residential purposes if:

- a) not more than 40m<sup>2</sup> of gross floor area of the dwelling is used for non-residential purposes;
- b) the person conducting the home occupation normally uses the dwelling as their principal place of residence;
- c) it does not involve employment of persons other than a resident;
- d) any load on a utility is no more than for a domestic use;
- e) there is no activity that causes electrical interference to other land;
- f) it does not involve display of goods for sale that are visible from any road or public open space adjoining the site;
- g) it involves no more than one advertising sign (that must be non-illuminated) and not more than 0.2m<sup>2</sup> in area;
- h) it does not involve refuelling, servicing, detailing or repair of vehicles not owned by the resident on the site;
- i) no more than one commercial vehicle is on the site at any one time and no commercial vehicle on the site exceeds two tonnes; and
- j) any vehicle used solely for non-residential purposes must be parked on the site.

Home occupation is exempt from requiring a permit under the Break O'Day Interim Planning Scheme 2013, clause 5.1.3, page B-14.

What is a home-based business?

A home-based business means the use of a part of a dwelling by the resident for non-residential purposes if:

- a) no more than 50m<sup>2</sup> of floor area of the dwelling is used for the non-residential purposes;
- b) the person conducting the business normally uses the dwelling as their principal place of residence;

- c) it does not involve employment of more than two workers who do not reside at the dwelling;
- d) any load on a utility is no greater than for a domestic use;
- e) there is no activity that causes electrical interference to other land;
- f) there is, on the site, no storage of hazardous materials;
- g) there is, on the site, no display of goods for sale;
- h) there is, on the site, no advertising of the business other than one sign (non-illuminated) not exceeding 0.2m<sup>2</sup> in area;
- i) there is, on the site, no refuelling, servicing or repair of vehicles not owned by a resident;
- j) not more than two commercial vehicles are on the site at any one time and no commercial vehicle on the site exceeds two tonnes; and
- k) all vehicles used by the business are parked on the site.

You can find this requirements in table 4.1.3, page B-5. Home-based business is permitted in the Environmental Living Zone, Rural Living Zone and Rural Resource (if in existing dwelling).

How do I know in which Zone my property is located?

You can find the Zoning and the Overlays of your property on our website under My Property, Planning. You will also find the full Break O'Day Interim Planning Scheme 2013 here.

What do I need to do?

Assess your proposal against the Break O'Day Interim Planning Scheme 2013 conditions and if you deem your proposal to be a home occupation, you are able to operate under the provisions of the Break O'Day Interim Planning Scheme 2013. Keep a record of your assessment for future reference including the date. This may be required to be provided to Council if a complaint is received regarding the activity being undertaken. If your proposal falls outside the home occupation definition, proceed to lodge a development application for a home business in accordance with council's lodgement process. Please refer to Council's Information Sheet How to Lodge by clicking here.
